

Our 2010 report on coach training schools has been withdrawn from the public domain.

The state of coach training changes rapidly, and we do not want to serve up any outdated information.

To our knowledge, the Sherpa Executive Coaching Certification is still the only program taught live on a university campus by published experts in the field.